

Andrea Taylor
Managing Director

Andrea Taylor is a Managing Director in the IIAC's Toronto office. She advocates on behalf of investment dealer firms in Canada on a variety of regulatory and tax related issues, including U.S tax reporting and FATCA, shareholder voting and proxy issues, and retirement savings programs.

Andrea is responsible for developing written and oral submissions to Canadian and U.S. policymakers on key industry issues, including federal pre-budget recommendations. She frequently leads industry representatives and government stakeholders at educational and roundtable events with the goal of building common knowledge and awareness, resulting in more cost-effective securities regulation and stronger and more vibrant capital markets in Canada.

Before joining the IIAC, Andrea practiced corporate and securities law in Toronto, specializing in corporate governance and disclosure best practices, mergers and acquisitions, and financing for Canadian reporting issuers.

Andrea earned a B.A. (Hons) in Geography (Urban Development) and a Masters of Public Administration (Local Government) from the University of Western Ontario, and a J.D. from Osgoode Hall Law School.
