Customer Service

Our commitment is to superior customer service. We focus on the development of our people through training, leadership, and coaching. All of these are fundamental to our effectiveness as a customer service organization. We are driven by and rewarded for achieving consistently high results in delivering service.

Correspondent Network pioneered the concept of putting specialists, not generalists, on their customer service teams; this is what we call the Middle Office Service Team (MOST) concept. We strongly believe that an approach focused on our clients' needs, combined with the ongoing development of our resources, are key to providing effective support service.
